Advanced Security with Easier Administration and Deployment

As mobile device usage continues to gain ground in today's enterprise, many IT organizations are faced with the challenge of providing secure access to corporate content, without having to worry about their data being compromised through data-leaks or permanent loss if a device is lost or stolen. In addition, significant amounts of data now reside solely on endpoints, so visibility and control of data becomes a huge concern to IT. To solve these challenges while not impacting end-user productivity, Druva partnered with MobileIron to create a comprehensive end-to-end IT solution for today's mobile workforce.
